The development trend of public sector enterprises is one of the strategic priorities of state policy at the regional level and ensuring balanced socio-economic development to accelerate sustainable economic growth in each region. In the process of realizing this phenomenon, important socio-economic problems of the region should find their effective solution. At the same time, the state acts as a controller and supplier of public goods, highlighting the needs of fundamental market relations.

The study analyzes the theoretical and scientific foundations of state regulation, the development of public sector enterprises, as well as the role of public authorities, a clear definition of the public sector concept, and the improvement of institutional mechanisms for the development of the public sector. Comparison with these basic models of the public sector system in the developed countries of the world and their effective research methods in relation to the economy have been thoroughly studied. Economic and mathematical framework was developed that covers the nature of the study of GDP per capita depending on the situation of public sector enterprises. The role of the public sector in the socio-economic development of the country contributes to the development of the social life of the population without the provision of paid utilities, social services, education, health, culture, transport is proved. An analysis of the economic activity of public sector enterprises in the Sughd region of Tajikistan, as well as a review of institutional mechanisms for the development of the public sector, was reviewed and presented to improve the management of public sector enterprises and increase their functional level.
