

ANNOTATION

for the dissertational work by Umarova Saodatkhon Ibroghimovne «Perfection of organizational-economic mechanism dealing with insurance of sustainable development concerned with viticulture-winemaking subcomplex of region (on the example of Sogd region of the Republic of Tajikistan)» presented for claiming a learned degree of a candidate of the sciences of economics 08.00.05 – Economics and Management of National Economy (regional economy)

Key-words: organizational-economic mechanism, viticulture-winemaking subcomplex, grapes production, innovational technology, economic effectiveness, competitiveness, structural-institutional transformation, viticulture cluster, wine-making produce

Actualness of the dissertational research. Today's stage of viticulture branch development moves out high requirements to their qualitative transformations. In this context further elevation of effectiveness and competitiveness of viticulture-winemaking sub complex as a highly profitable for the economic system of the agro industrial complex acquires a special significance. Determination of streamlines of variants and models of utilization in regard to a potential of viticulture-winemaking subcomplex of the region, option of strategic bearings of development and their achievement, creation of conditions for effective functioning all economy subjects might enjoy on the basis of state support, regulation and management precondition a necessity of elaboration of theoretical and methodical grounds targeted at insurance of their sustainable development.

The objective of the dissertational research lies in working out scientific-methodical foundations and practical suggestions and recommendations in a formation of organizational-economic mechanism of sustainable development in reference to viticulture-winemaking sub complex of the region.

Scientific novelty of the research lies in elaboration of methodical approaches to substantiation of principles and major directions of sustainable development of viticulture-winemaking subcomplex of the region. In the process of the research we have obtained main results determining scientific novelty and being an object of defense: methodical approaches to substantiation of development in regard to viticulture- winemaking subcomplex of the region are generalized, factors affecting subcomplex sustainable development are systematized, streamlines of structural-institutional transformations in viticulture-winemaking subcomplex of the region are scientifically well-grounded, programme arrangements for perfection of state mechanism of stimulation dealing with entrepreneurial activity in the viticulture-winemaking subcomplex are suggested.